

Access BPL (broadband power line) is a problematic technology. Studies in Great Briton and Japan demonstrate that the deployment of this technology is premature. I hope the FCC will delay its implementation until the field is considerably further advanced.